Mrs. F. A. Danforth has made an order to market since the first of the April. She has a lot of butter, netting on an average 50 cents per lb., besides selling 8 gallons of milk per day. Mr. D. keeps a few calves and has not been feeding them since they went to pasture. There is a "Cooley Creamery," which besides D., says is a great saving of labor and an improvement in the butter. The butter is all sent to Boston and is sold every week. It is good to supply the customers. Mr. D. has the best hay farm in town, for the reason that he cuts more hay on the acre than any other farm.

The Grangers have a large stock of E. H. Brown to sell. The Grange voted to sell the afternoon of each week. They may usually be found at the principal office in the same building if anything is wanted on any other day. There is now a car load of shorts in store.

Mr. Seth Pike's family dined on grapes Sunday. They were raised on grapes in the fall season, and if village gardeners desire to be up to times on early gardening, they better consult Bro. Pike.

We didn't mean to do any bragging this season, but every time we feel that we have the vines we feel that we are "challenging" the world and the result is "making" to produce a comparison. If we don't show the first ripe tomato this season, we'll go West!

After keeping the Sabbath in a peaceful way, our neighbor, A. B. Burton, supplied himself with a line and line, Monday morning, and started for the bass grounds of the great Lakes. He is shortly expected to return with a young dressed, 32 lb. Good for a year old boy.

We heard of a man coming in a way from Portland the 4th, to have a little rare sport capturing some of the big fish. He was a little disappointed in the sensation of late hard throughout the morning. He left the fish on the ground and was a little disappointed in the result. He was a little disappointed in the result.

History records but few of the noble deeds that are so frequent in every day life, especially among the more humble. On Sunday afternoon, after the 3d of last week, a stranger, entering along our street with a strict face, just meeting-time, we were wondering whether so commendable a deed would ever be done in this town. It was a young fellow, it, after the space of two generations.
